

English C Course

Semester 1 2005

Theme: Society and Life in the 21st Century

Lecturer's name: アニー・マーロウ

C Course objectives:

- : to give practice in explaining, discussing and debating
- : to advance critical thinking skills
- : to extend abilities in reading and listening comprehension
- : to develop abilities in written and oral description, procedure, explanation, and argument

Course content:

In this course we will be envisioning what society and life will be like in this century.

In the course you will:

- *view and discuss clips from various films depicting life in this century
- *read essays and other short writings on life in the 21st century
- *question, discuss and debate issues
- *give individual and group presentations
- *practise argumentative and descriptive writing

Information for students:

This course is not suitable for students who received C grades in English A or B.

Textbook/materials:

All materials will be provided.

Evaluation:

Presentations	35%
Written assignments	35%
Class activities	30%

English Education Center Ehime University